Long Distance Message Telecommunications Service (LDMTS) is the furnishing of those service components required for telecommunication between service points in different local service areas, but within the same LATA's, in accordance with the regulations and system of charges specified in this Part. The message charges specified in this Section are in payment for Long Distance Message Telecommunications Service furnished between the calling and called service points.

However, the Company will not be responsible for the through transmission of signals or for the quality of transmission on such connections.

2. Availability of Services

- a. In case a shortage of service components exists at any time either for temporary or protracted periods, the establishment of long distance message telecommunications service shall take precedence over all others.

14. Definitions (cont'd)

Station-to-Station: The term "Station-to-Station" denotes that service where the person originating the message dials the telephone number desired, or gives to the Company operator the telephone number of the desired service point, Mobile Telephone Service connecting circuit, PBX, or PBX service point which is reached directly rather than through a PBX attendant, or gives only the name and address under which the number of the desired service point, Mobile Telephone Service connecting circuit or PBX is listed, and does not specify a particular person to be reached, nor a particular mobile service point to be reached through a Mobile Telephone Service attendant, nor a particular service point, department or office to be reached through a PBX attendant.

"Dial Station-to-Station" is that Station-to-Station service where the person originating the message from other than a public or semi-public coin telephone dials the telephone number desired and the message is completed without the assistance of a Company operator, including 1) when an operator records the originating telephone number where no automatic recording equipment is available; 2) when an operator records a special identification number, issued by the Company for its billing purposes to students who reside at dormitories of colleges or universities equipped with a customer premises PBX equipped with Direct Inward Dial (DID) and Identified Outward Dial (IOD) service; 3) for a message forwarded by call forwarding equipment; 4) when an operator reaches the called telephone number where service components are not available for dial completion; 5) when an operator places a message for a calling party who identifies himself as being disabled and unable to dial the message because of his disability; 6) when an operator reestablishes a message which has been interrupted after the called number has been reached and; 7) when an operator places a call for the calling party who declares that he has attempted to complete the call but has been unable to do so due to technical difficulties.

Station-to-Station calls may be dialed direct, or completed with the assistance of a Company operator. If the customer utilizes an operator, there are three levels of Operator Assistance service.<sup>/1/</sup> They are:

(C)

- a. Non-Automated: Non-Automated service is where the person originating the call dials zero or a special access number (e.g. an 800/888 number), and the operator dials the number and collects necessary information for completion of the call. Non-automated service includes service that is not semi-automated. When an operator re-establishes a non-automated call which has been interrupted due to a problem on the network after the called number has been reached, no additional operator service charge shall apply.
- b. Semi-Automated: Semi-automated service is where the person originating the call dials zero or a special access number (e.g. an 800/888 number), then dials the desired telephone number, and the operator collects necessary information for completion of the call. When an operator re-establishes a semi-automated call which has been interrupted due to a problem on the network after the called number has been reached, no additional operator service charge shall apply. Semi-automated service also includes the situation when an operator places a call for a party who identifies himself as being disabled and unable to dial the call because of his disability.
