A. DESCRIPTION

1. Intercom Calling (IC) allows customers to use their existing extension telephone as an Intercom system by dialing an access code. The access code can be dialed from any extension telephone and each code will have a distinctive ring which can be used to signal a specific individual.
2. Intercom Calling also allows customers to place a call on hold, to transfer a call to another person or extension telephone by dialing an access code or to add a third party to an existing call.
3. IC is comprised of four features, three of which are combined in one package, i.e., Call Hold, Intercom Dialing and Call Transfer. Three-way Calling, as shown elsewhere in this Information Link, which provides the functionality described below, is the fourth feature. All are required to provide IC.

B. DESCRIPTION OF FEATURES

1. Call Hold - Permits a customer to place a call on hold by dialing an access code and hanging up the receiver.
2. Intercom Dialing - Enables a customer to reach another person in the customer premises by dialing an access code. The person assigned the code can answer on any extension telephone.
3. Call Transfer - Allows a customer to transfer an incoming call to another extension telephone on the same line by dialing an access code. The person assigned the code can then answer the call on any extension telephone.
4. Three-Way Calling - Allows a customer to establish a three-way telephone conversation by adding a third party to an existing call.

B. DESCRIPTION OF FEATURES

11. Voice Calling

a. Description of the Service

- (1) Voice Calling is an optional service arrangement that allows the customer to associate spoken names with designated telephone numbers. This arrangement allows the customer to automatically initiate telephone calls by lifting the telephone handset, receiving dial tone, and speaking the name of the called party rather than dialing the called party's telephone number.
- (2) Voice Calling recognizes the unique or individual speech pattern for each person. The customer's speech pattern is associated with each spoken name used (i.e. two people speaking the same name is considered two speech patterns).
- (3) Voice Calling provides for a Directory List which has the capacity for up to 50 individual speech patterns.
- (4) Voice Calling does not require special Customer-Provided Equipment (CPE).
- (5) Voice Calling, through a Shared List feature, will offer access to the directory list of the main access line equipped with Voice Calling. The Shared List feature provides access to the Directory list from another telephone number which has the same billing account as the main access line equipped with Voice Calling and is served from the same exchange central office.
- (6) The Voice Calling Trial is scheduled to begin May 1, 1995 in selected Central Offices.
