

EXCHANGE ACCESS SERVICEA. General

The local exchange rates shown in this Guidebook are applied in accordance with the provisions of this Guidebook for services located within each exchange. Unless otherwise specified, the charges quoted are for periods of one month and are payable monthly in advance. (C)

B. Application of Rates

The basic rate element for the business and residence local exchange services offered in this Guidebook is the Exchange Access Line. Exchange Access Lines are subject to the nonrecurring charges specified in 'Service Charges' in Part 3, Section 1.

The Exchange Access Line is composed of the serving central office line equipment, all outside plant facilities needed to connect the serving central office with the network interface at the demarcation point of the customer premises. These facilities are Company-provided and maintained and provide access to and from the telecommunications network for long distance service and for local calling appropriate to the local calling option selected by the customer. Touch-tone Calling Service is included in the service provided over the exchange Access Line and provides the capability for the origination of calls by means of instruments equipped for tone-type address signaling.^{/1/}

1. Classification of Exchanges

The classification of an exchange into rate schedules is based on the total number of exchange access arrangements (EAA) in the exchange. When for a minimum period of 120 days the total number of exchange access arrangements in an exchange or in the area within which extended area service is provided for an exchange is more or less than the number shown for the classification then applicable to such exchange, that exchange shall be reclassified to its proper rate schedule as specified by this Guidebook.

2. Flat Rate Services

The rates for flat rate services include the exchange access line and unlimited outgoing local usage within the local calling scope for the exchange or zone where the service is being provided.

3. Local Extended Area Service

Where an exchange is included in a local extended area service arrangement, the total number of exchange access arrangements in the area within which extended area service is provided for that exchange, whether Company or non-Company exchange access arrangements, is used to determine the proper rate schedule. Where applicable, extended area service charges are applied in addition to the rates for the local exchange services specified for these exchanges and zones.

/1/ Exchange Access Lines not equipped for Touch-tone Calling Service are classified as obsolete for existing installations at existing locations for existing customers unless local exchange service is provided by an electromechanical central office.

B. Application of Rates (cont'd)

4. Exchange Service

When exchange service is furnished within the exchange area boundary and new construction is necessary, plant extensions will be constructed by the Company in accordance with the provisions set forth in 'Construction Charges' in Part 2, Section 5, in addition to the rates for exchange service specified in Part 4, Section 2.
